

AN UNJUST CRITICISM

Judge Wren Gives The Journal an Undeserved Thrust

Thomas Wren has no occasion to beat in to the Journal. He has always been considered by the management of this paper and by the writer as an able attorney, a thorough gentleman and a friend toward this paper. He has frequently been requested to give his opinion in matters of public interest, because of the confidence this paper had in his good judgment and his friendship.

But a strange thing happened yesterday at the Sparks barbecue. Judge Wren mounted the platform and announced to the many hundred people present that the article in The Journal of that morning, with reference to the Wedekind mine was prejudiced, incorrect and, he intimated, malicious.

Judge Wren could not have spoken the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. He may have been mistaken in his reading of the paper, his conception of the facts in the case or the authority he had for coming to the conclusion he did was faulty.

It was not so much what he said, but what he seemed to mean that has inspired this defensive article. Judge Wren implied that The Journal was endeavoring to steal from George Wedekind the honor for the discovery of the mine that bears his name. Such an accusation is more akin to the driveling of an imbecile than the utterance of a man of Judge Wren's mental acumen. It is almost too silly to be controverted.

The fact is, The Journal has stood for George Wedekind through thick and thin. The Journal has aided him in every way possible. It painted in glowing language the splendid future of the mine when a sale was pending. It stood shoulder to shoulder with him when the litigation was on. The Journal honors George Wedekind, rejoices that his old age is being spent in ease and congratulates him on his good fortune. The Journal believes that George Wedekind is entitled to the credit of the discovery of the mine and never intimated that he isn't.

There are plenty of witnesses to the fact that Harry Ramsey has stated and no longer than yesterday that he found the ore that led to the Wedekind lode. The Journal has injured Mr. Ramsey by not stating this. The Journal refrained because of a knowledge that George Wedekind was sensitive upon this subject.

Judge Wren further said yesterday that the article in The Journal gave the old man so much grief that he declined to attend the barbecue.

That is false. Authority for this assertion is Louis G. Wedekind, who, in conversation with The Journal representative, said that other causes kept George Wedekind at home and that he so announced his intention before he saw The Journal.

Let it be remembered that The Journal's friendship for George Wedekind was not purchased. Neither this paper nor anyone connected with it ever received a cent of subsidy from Mr. Wedekind or from any subsequent owner of the Wedekind mine. Mr. Wedekind never paid The Journal a cent for anything except the regular subscription price of the paper.

Mr. Wren will regain The Journal's esteem by retracting his statements.

THE RED LETTER DAY OF MODERN RENO

Four Thousand Renoites Enjoy the Hospitality of Owner of Wedekind Mine

From Superintendent Crane down to the small boy who sweeps out the assay office all the employees of the Sparks mines and mill were togged in their Sunday best yesterday to do honor to the people who were their guests. John Sparks wore garments of less value and neatness, for he was busied with the labors of looking after the comforts of the people he had invited out to spend the day.

Frazer's grove was the scene of the biggest barbecue the County of Washoe has ever witnessed. It was not only one of the largest gatherings, but was the most select, for the edict had gone forth that no intoxicants would be dispensed and no persons under the influence of liquor would be tolerated. This brought out the best people and there were a few of the best. By counting plates it was discovered that four thousand people had been fed up to six o'clock last evening.

If you weren't there it would be hard to make you understand how pleasant the day really was. For a week the employees of the mines and mill had all been putting in their spare time working and a number of sleepless night hours thinking plans to entertain the people without a hitch and without the omission of a possible comfort.

To begin with the pretty grove was cleared of every fallen twig and pebble. The fresh lawn beneath the trees looked like a green Axminster carpet.

First of all a dancing platform was erected. It was made as smooth as plane and wax are capable of. Then a grand stand was built. This was looked after carefully, for the Eagle hand had been engaged and the pretty new uniforms could not be spoiled by splintery seats and back rests.

Electrician Caffrey then got in his work. He strung wires to the grove and put up a number of arc lamps, so that the festivities could be carried on by night as well as by day.

Comfortable benches were scattered about the little park and tables were built at which the barbecue could be enjoyed. The children were not forgotten. Swings and other means of pleasure were placed where they could be easily found.

Then the invitation was sent out into the highways and by-ways for rich and poor, old and young to come for the feast had been prepared.

One of the most pleasant features of the day was the attendance of the public school children. Superintendent Crane brought a special invitation for all the school children to be present and stated that transportation to and from the grove had been provided by Mr. Sparks.

The invitation was accepted and the Principal was authorized to close the schools at noon in order to permit the children and teachers to attend. Not an accident marred the pleasure of the day although five hundred children were transported out and back. They had a splendid time and will never forget the pleasures of the day.

They gathered in groups and cheered their host, they stuffed themselves on the barbecued meats, they were incomparably and inexpressibly happy.

The allegation that the barbecue was given by Mr. Sparks because he is a candidate or the governorship of the State is a silly one. But it has not been openly made and the politician who does it will have all the school children in Reno and practically all their parents to scarp. The kids are loyal to Mr. Sparks. Yesterday a little tot, worn out with playing and satiated by the banquet, leaned her sleepy little head against her teacher's shoulder and murmured: "Isn't Mr. Sparks the best Governor we ever had?"

This barbecue was planned months ago at a time when John Sparks had no political aspirations. Even the date for it was set before the candidacy was urged upon him. The barbecue was given to celebrate one of the greatest events in the history of Washoe county—the first cleanup in Mr. Sparks' new mill.

The visitors were admitted not only to the mill, but shown through the treasure vaults by Harry Clark, superintendent of the mill. He showed them the sulphides in the drying room, just as they came from the press. There are 3800 pounds of them and they carry fifty per cent in gold and silver. He also showed them the dry sulphides in the other vault. These carry 85 per cent gold and silver and there are 3200 pounds of them. This makes a total of 4600 pounds of the pure stuff.

The proportion of the gold and silver is one ounce to about 100. A simple mathematical problem proves that the cleanup means more money than the most of us ever expect to earn in this world.

This is what Mr. Sparks and his employees asked the people of Washoe county to help them celebrate yesterday.

The crowd began to arrive about noon. By two o'clock the grove contained hundreds of people and later there were a couple of thousand.

The tables were laden with viands. The barbecued meats were simply luscious and the other eatables were equally delicious. Coffee with an aroma like the odors of Araby and Blest washed down the repast and there was real cream to give it the golden color. Mrs. Sparks provided the sauce for the meat. It was made after a home recipe and this caused some of the guests to eat really more than was good for them.

The lemonade barrels were liberally patronized, also without money and without price. Half a dozen men were kept busy replenishing the supply.

Then the band began to play. This was a feature of the festivities that afforded almost as much pleasure as the banquet. Scores of young people danced to the strains of the music and hundreds occupied the benches listening to the selections.

Late in the afternoon Judge Wren made an address that is commented upon elsewhere in this paper. After night had fallen and the arc lamps began to glow, Mrs. Harry Clark was introduced to the audience. She read a poem prepared for the occasion. It will be published in The Journal tomorrow.

A bar of bullion, the first run from the sulphides in the mill, was presented to Mr. Sparks. It weighed 160 ounces and will never see the mint. It will be preserved as a memento of the occasion.

Considerable disappointment was expressed that George Wedekind could not be present. The guests would have greatly enjoyed his telling the story of the discovery and upbuilding of this famous group of mines.

The festivities continued till a late hour. Until nearly midnight people continued to arrive and there was a vexed question of transportation. It was a hard matter to get all the crowd back before the opening of shops and stores and offices this morning. They were loath to return until the last possible moment.

Not an accident or unpleasant event marred the enjoyment of the day. A vote of thanks to Mr. Sparks and family and to the miners and mill men is now in order.

Terribly Burned

The jail in the town of Paradise caught fire Sunday night in some manner unknown and was only saved from destruction by the hard work of citizens. There was but one prisoner in the jail, a fellow who had been arrested that day for stealing a horse from L. Recanzone. The man had a narrow escape from death in the burning jail. He was taken out unconscious and is said to be in a precarious condition.—Silver State.

Better Reports

Conflicting reports still continue to come from Donnelly Mountain. The original discoverer now claims that he was not grub staked and that there are no legal difficulties in the way of his disposing of his interests. He says it was a later locator that is in trouble with his grub stakers. The ledges are said to be looking better as development work progresses.

Were Appreciative

"What's the matter with Sparks? He's all right! Hip! Hip, hurrah!" That's what five hundred public school children yelled in unison yesterday. The younger element always appreciates a kindness.

A Driving Accident

While returning from the barbecue last night Wm. Trieb met with an accident. His buggy ran into a ditch and capsized. The horse freed itself from the harness and continued on to town.

TO TUNNEL THE SIERRAS

The S. P. Company Definitely Decides upon this Project

The Southern Pacific surveyors that have been engaged since last spring to find a tunnel route for the Central Pacific, read through the Sierra Nevada mountains are putting the results of their work into shape for submission to President E. H. Harriman.

It is known that the route laid out by the surveyors provides for a tunnel 34,800 feet long, or nearly seven miles. The estimated cost is $14,000,000. It will cut down the summit grade 1500 feet and enable the company to get rid of all but three miles of the forty-two miles of snowsheds. The proposed tunnel will pierce the mountains at an elevation of about 5300 feet. By removing almost 1500 feet of the present grade the approaches and grades of the road at each end of the tunnel can be straightened very materially and reduced.

The tunnel is part of Mr. Harriman's plan to modernize the Central Pacific and reduce time between San Francisco and Chicago twelve hours, or from three days, as at present, to two days and a half.

On the Ogden end of the road the next most expensive piece of work is now in progress. Fully 146 miles of the old line are to be abandoned, and at a cost of about $5,000,000 a cut-off of 105 miles between Ogden and Lucin is being built.

JOHN M. DENNIS, Editor

OUR GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE.

THE following article from the Salt Lake Herald appeared in the Eureka Sentinel August 24, 1901. It shows the sterling qualities of the man who has just been nominated for Governor by the Democratic and Silver parties of Nevada:

Mr. Sparks has never been an office-seeker or even been considered a practical politician, but even if he were at that time, the period is so remote that it cannot be charged that he was laying his wires for political purposes when this incident took place:

In these days of tax-dodging capitalists it is refreshing to find at least one man of wealth who prefers to pay his full assessment, even when he might avoid it without being guilty of any overt dishonesty or prevarication. This man is John Sparks, the well known cattle breeder of Reno, Nevada.

When Mr. Sparks received notice of his assessment he found that his cattle had been valued at $50 per head, while the estimate made on his thoroughbred bulls was at the rate of $100 each. As Mr. Sparks keeps nothing but the highest grade stock, he knew these figures to be far too low. Instead of pocketing the difference and congratulating himself on the leniency or inexperience of the Assessor, he promptly notified that official that his appraisal was too small. He declared his cattle to be worth every cent of $70 a head and his bulls not less than $500, and he insisted on being assessed at this rate.

In placing his reputation above his pocket, Mr. Sparks not only sets a fine example of honesty, but he demonstrates his sound business sense. He keeps only the highest class of cattle, and he realized that to have them listed at an insignificant price would place him in a false light. In short, he appreciated that his reputation for honesty and integrity was worth more to him than the dollars he might save by keeping his mouth shut. Nevada has every reason to be proud of such a citizen, and if there were more business men like John Sparks in the country the State treasuries would be fuller and assessment rates far lower.

In the majority of cases tax-dodging is looked upon as a matter of self-protection. A few dishonest men through pulls and sometimes through corruption, secure an undervaluation. Their competitors and neighbors, seeing this, believe that it is not fair that they should pay more than an equivalent share of the taxes. It is therefore refreshing to find one man who takes a more exalted view of his duties as a citizen, and it is to be hoped that others will follow his example.

SINGS IN A MINOR KEY.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S swing around the circle is unquestionably intended for political effect but what the effect will be either upon himself or the country remains to be seen. His speeches can hardly be considered satisfactory from either a Republican or a Democratic standpoint. The burden of his song is "the trusts," and he says just enough to alarm those cormorants of modern business, without giving the people any assurance whatever of substantial relief. He likens the trusts to the Mississippi river with its mighty flow which it is beyond the power of the United States to stop, but which, by means of embankments or levees, may be kept within its channel, and prevented from doing any harm.

Beyond the suggestion of publicity, Roosevelt proposes no remedy, for his talk about regulation is altogether general and indefinite. He divides the people into two classes: Those who refuse to admit that any action is necessary and those who advocate some non-effective action, or, which, if effective, would destroy the good along with the bad. By far the greater part of his speeches is devoted to the danger of trying to do anything at all. At Wheeling he said that if we attempt to dam up the trusts and reverse the industrial tendencies of the age, such cities as the one in which he was speaking would have to go out of business. Obviously, he is furnishing plenty of argument to those who want no action—the first-class named by him. This class includes practically the entire leadership of the Republican party, and, of course, it includes the trusts themselves which control the Republican leadership.

Mr. Roosevelt's entire song is pitched in a minor key. Evidently he does not expect much to be done, and he says so very frankly. Still he thinks that something should be done. In view of the magnitude of the evil he is discussing, his "something" seems like a rather small word. It is next to nothing. And if his division of the people into two classes, one of which wants nothing done while the other proposes non-effective or destructive remedies is a correct division, how can he expect anything to be done?

In truth his utterances are of no practical value save as they admit the existence of the trust evil. This, in itself, is enough to alarm the trusts. They may be satisfied that Mr. Roosevelt is only talking for his re-nomination and election in 1904, but at the same time they do not care to have the President direct public attention to the abuses of the trust system. It is quietly whispered that the trust magnates regard the terrible Teddy as quite "too strenuous" a talker. Much more to their liking is Mark Hanna who sees naught but perfection in the trust system. Nevertheless, if Roosevelt can popularize himself with the masses by a mild criticism of the trusts, and at the same time satisfy the trusts that the talk is for political purposes only, they may conclude that they can elect Roosevelt more easily than Hanna, and make Teddy the candidate in 1904.

There may be a great deal of method in Roosevelt's strenuousness. It is to be observed that he has very carefully refrained from suggesting a removal or a reduction of protective duties, which in many cases give the trusts extraordinary advantages over and above those resulting from the mere combinations themselves. Here we have a very simple remedy, as far as it goes, and it certainly goes much farther than does anything which Mr. Roosevelt proposes. There is nothing revolutionary about such a remedy, and there is no room for doubt that it would force a general lowering of prices on trust-controlled products. Many Republicans see this, but if the President does, he gives no sign. He simply talks. What is more significant he didn't even begin to talk until after Congress adjourned.

THE test at the primaries for the fusion men to vote declares that they believe in the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Probably this is the reason they will pledge themselves to vote for a gold bug for Governor.—Carson News.

Diabetes and Bright's Disease.
Interview With Edward Short of the San Francisco Call.

Mr. Edward Short, connected with the business department of the San Francisco Call, interviewed.

Q—You are reported to have been cured of diabetes?

A—That is right.

Q—Are you sure it was diabetes?

A—I was reported for insurance, and later falling rapidly, our physician told me I had diabetes and to put my affairs in shape.

Q—Have more than one physician?

A—Yes, I had another confirm it. He, too, said I could not live long. I had dropped from 200 to 135 pounds and was very weak. A neighbor told me of the Fulton Compound.

Q—How long did you have to take it?

A—But a year before I was perfectly well.

Q—Did your physicians then test for sugar?

A—Both did. Both reported normal. They were very greatly surprised at my recovery, for they had told me diabetes was incurable.

Q—Know of any other cures?

A—Several. I told my friend, William Martin, an S. P. conductor of Stockton, about it. He had diabetes, and was about to give up his position when I told him. He got the same results I did, and was well when killed a year or so later.

Q—Any others?

A—I told William Hawkins of the Custom House and Captain Hubbard of the barkentine S. N. Castle, upon hearing they had diabetes. Both of them were cured. I also told a neighbor who had diabetes. In a month it was eliminated. I can't recollect all I've told.

Q—Did it fail in any case?

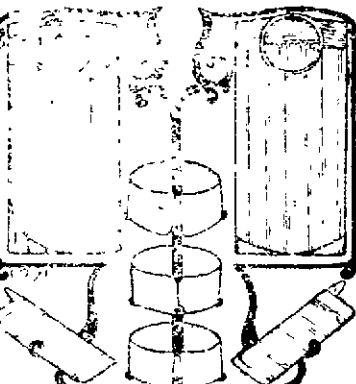

A—Not one. It is a positive cure in Bright's Disease and Diabetes. Go over and see Hawkins and he will tell you the same thing.

NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTION
Pleasures Are in Store for the Reno Theater Goers

Beginning next Monday evening the big new Elford Company will present at the opera house a repertoire of some of the world's most famous plays, at prices that have never before been associated with the plays produced.

The opening bill will be the most thrilling of last season's London and New York successes, entitled "A Lion's Heart."

This piece is without doubt one of the strongest bills now before the American people and has been produced by the Elford Company in such a perfect manner that it leaves nothing to be desired.

For the balance of the week such plays as "Blue Jeans," "In Mizouri," "Man's Enemy," "A Celebrated Case," "Shenandoah" and "Cinderella" will be produced and the people of Reno can well look forward with pleasure to the Elford season. The prices are within the reach of all—15, 25 and 35 cents. Seats are now on sale at Rosenthal's.

BOY CURED OF COLIC AFTER PHYSICIAN'S TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he injected morphine, but the child kept growing worse. I then gave him half a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and in half an hour was sleeping and soon recovered.—F. L. Wilkins, Shell Lake, Wis. Sufferers from coughs, colds, throat and lung trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by S. J. Hodgkinson. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

CROPS AND CLIMATE
Report of the Weather Bureau for the Past Week

Hot and dry weather prevailed over the State during the past seven days, the daily mean temperatures averaging from two to seven degrees above normal in northern and western sections. A few of the days were quite sultry, and the last three nights have been warmer than usual for this time of the year.

The weather conditions of the week have been highly favorable to agricultural interests.

The hay harvest is practically finished and the cutting of grain is nearing completion. Threshing is now well advanced and reports indicate that the grain is turning out very well in most districts. Minor crops are doing well and maturing nicely.

Apples are very fine this year and a large crop will be harvested. Cattle continue in good condition, although the range feed is rather poor in most localities.

WESTERN SECTION.

Lewers' Ranch, near Franktown—Weather very warm. Grain threshing going on. The threshers report a yield from one-fourth to one-half less than last year's crop. Cattle looking well; water scarce. Highest temperature, 95, on the 6th, lowest, 48, on the 31st; no rain.—Mrs. Ross Lewers.

Wadsworth—The weather during past week has been very warm. All kinds of vegetables are doing well and promise an average crop. Fruit is in good condition and ripening rapidly.—T. G. Herman.

Carson City—The weather of the past week was very warm in the day time, with night temperatures higher than usual for this time of the year. The daily mean temperature averaged 7 degrees above normal; the highest temperature during the week was 91, on the 6th, and the lowest, 48, on the 4th. The hay and grain harvest is about over and threshing is well under way. Vegetable crops looking well and maturing nicely. Fruit ripening rapidly; fine crop of apples in sight.—J. H. Smith.

ARE YOU DRY?

Then drop into the Snug. Your beer will be drawn cold and sharp. The wines and liquors there are of the best and the cigars contain no cabbage leaves. Go and see Jim.

Johnson Sides Stands Up for His Tribesmen

Johnson Sides, the old Indian Peace Commissioner, who has been coming to Sacramento for many years with the Indian hop-pickers, is very much exercised over the statement published a few days ago that the Indians who were engaged in the drunken brawl near Elk Grove last Thursday night, when an old man named McCarty was killed, had come from the Sagebrush State. Sides declares the Nevada Indians had nothing to do with the affair, that the crime was committed by half breeds who had come from El Dorado county, in this State.

Sides proudly declares that the Indians who are under his direction are temperate men and before they were given permission to leave their reservation in Nevada they pledged themselves they would not drink any liquor during their absence. He says they have kept their pledges faithfully, knowing if they broke them, and the fact was found out, they might not be permitted to go back to their homes on the reservation.—Bee.

There is no loss of time when it is used, as one or two doses of it will cure any ordinary attack. It never fails, not even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by S. J. Hodgkinson.

Reparation Demanded and freely Given

At a time last evening when The Journal was its busiest the phone bell rang and a long wall came from Floriston from W. K. Bradbury, manager of the paper mills. He took umbrage at an item in this paper Tuesday morning to the effect that he shocked a social masquerade gathering there the other evening by appearing in the abbreviated costume of the Tyrolean. Perhaps our correspondent was wrong in stating that Mr. Bradbury wore a Tyrolean costume. The Journal could not swear that he wore anything.

This paper is grieved that Mr. Bradbury was offended. Hereafter it will never refer to Mr. Bradbury's wearing apparel or the tint of it. Nothing is further from the desire of this rag than the saying of things that make people threaten to put their grievances into the hands of an attorney and run big telephone bills.

From The Journal's knowledge of Mr. Bradbury it is safe to say that he had his person well garbed at the social referred to, and that he exposed nothing but his sensitiveness. It is to be hoped that this item makes ample reparation for the squib objected to.

If Mr. Bradbury for whom The Journal has a great liking and whom we would never intentionally injure, is not satisfied with this reparation, we will, with malice aforethought and an axe, slay our iniquitous correspondent up the river.

Prof. Brandon, Miss Schaefer, Miss Wightman and Miss Joy, tiring of waiting for a bus to convey them back to town, set out on foot and tramped the entire five miles back to town. The teachers who waited for the carriages beat the pedestrian pedagogues into town by at least an hour.

Banquet Postponed

The banquet to have been given last evening by Joe Sim son, proprietor of the Monarch Lunch Counter, to the relay team, was postponed on account of the Sparks barbecue.

W. H. Holabird, a mining man of Los Angeles, was in town yesterday. He was on his way home from Tonopah where he was looking after recently acquired interests.

As the result of a lovers' quarrel, Rollin O'Shea, a young lawyer, shot and killed his betrothed, Emily Hogan son, in Chicago yesterday.

TRICKS WITH LIQUORS

Are about as foolish as tricks with drugs would be. It is most important that the wines and liquors in the home should be both pure and good. At least I consider it so, and so should you.

The quality of the wines and liquors I offer is a proof that I value the health and esteem of my customers as well as my own pocket and reputation. I sell high class goods because it means more business.
